

Building a Sustainable Restoration Trust

Strategic Review and Forward Plan Consultancy

The Restoration Trust, founded in 2014, provides access to heritage projects for people with mental health challenges. We call this “culture therapy”. We have run highly successful and innovative projects over the past ten years including at Stonehenge (Human Henge) and in the Norfolk Records Office (Change Minds). Our website provides further information www.restorationtrust.org.uk

With funding from The National Lottery Heritage Fund, we now seek consultants to undertake a strategic review and forward plan exercise to take us through the next ten years. The brief for the work and the template for completion is available on our website and sets out in some detail the key tasks we expect to be undertaken. The budget for this work is £29,750K plus VAT and expenses.

We are looking for consultants who can bring a mixture of skills and experience relating to heritage, health, charitable funding and strategic thinking.

If you are interested in this work and would like further clarification, please register your interest by emailing Darren and we will send you the brief and associated information.
